Human Writes UK

Human Writes is a non-religious, non-political group that finds PenPals for prisoners on Death Row in the USA. Many prisoners have no contact with their families or friends and most spend up to 23 hours a day in their very small cells. They are not allowed to work and are very restricted as to possessions. Contact with the outside world and friendship through writing are something many prisoners want. Jesus calls us to remember and care for those in prison. For most prisoners writing is both affordable and permissible and receiving a letter from the outside means so much to them and a sign they have not been forgotten and that someone cares for them. It would be wonderful if a few more people would consider being PenPals.
